"EVERYWOMAN"

Will Be Seen in All of Its Splendor at the Lyceum Wednesday Afternoon and Night

One of the remarkable things about the dramatic spectacle, "Everywoman," which Henry W. Savage will offer at the Lyceum Wednesday, April 19, matinee and night, is that on the second or third visit to a city it brings out an even greater attendance than the first. Each individual character is a study and is a tribute to the deep insight into human nature that enabled Walter Browne to write the play. The accumulated breadth of thought that has gathered about and radiated from "Everywoman" is suggestive in its immensity of the classic thought in the writings of Shakespeare, touching every phase of the relations that inspire the ambitions of every woman, or any woman, to gether with the zenith that may be gained by unbroken success, until finally time calls away her youth and the strenuousness of her quest has caused the death of her beauty and she has left only truth and love.

Henry W. Savage has scored his greatest triumph in the presentation of "Everywoman." For in the maze and mesh of trashy theme and tinsel trumpery so common to the drama of today, "Everywoman" stands out as an epoch of truth and sincerity.

"Everywoman" is a great artist's conception of the chief aim in the life of womanhood composite—the quest of love. And though, through one of the pranks of fate, Browne himself never lived to enjoy his triumph, the message lives and breathes with the high and sincere purpose dominating this wonderful plea in behalf of every woman.

NEWS OF IMPERIAL MISSOURI
Many readers of the Mail will no doubt remember the legal notices that Hunt, Bailey & Hunt, attorneys, had in our columns during the past year, giving notice that one James Carr Lemon, who disappeared from Atchison county several years ago, one notice finally declaring him legally dead and stating that an administrator would be appointed for his estate, valued at about $4,500. Finally the day came for the appointment of the administrator, during the month of March, and Jos. Durfee was appointed. Strange to say, word was received that, on the very day Mr. Durfee was appointed, Lemon, who had not been heard from in years, had been killed in Texas, in a quarrel over his pigs setting into a neighbor's field. It is said that Lemon left home on account of family troubles.—Atchison County Mail.

Recently the school children of St. Louis raised enough money among themselves to purchase an elephant, and the animal will be presented by them to the city and kept in the city zoo, still being regarded as the property of the kids and their especial pet. The amount raised was given in dimes, nickels, pennies and quarters, and the kids worked hard for it, being mighty proud of their success. The elephant has been purchased from Col. Billy Hall of Lancaster and will be shipped to St. Louis by him some time this week.
